

The background of the entire image is a dark, textured surface, possibly leather or faux leather. Overlaid on this is a large, intricate embossed design. It features a central figure, likely a religious or historical figure, surrounded by ornate, symmetrical patterns that resemble stylized foliage or architectural elements. The embossing is subtle, with the design appearing slightly raised from the surface.

Our days are a kaleidoscope. Every instant a change takes place in the contents. New harmonies, new contrasts, new combinations of every sort. Nothing ever happens twice alike. The most familiar people stand in each moment in some new relation to each other, to their work, to their surrounding objects. The most tranquil house, with the most serene inhabitants living upon the utmost regularity of system, is yet exemplifying infinite diversities.

Henry Ward Beecher 1813-1837

Graduates become the Cover Story

Graduates become the cover story
Representing all those still within;
As those who came before provide the glory
Determining how well one might begin.
Underneath the letters are the learners,
A class on whom the mantle now must fall,
Taken into custody as earners,
Each as new advertisement for all,
Serving as the institute writ small.

Office of the President

Spring 2006

Dear Graduates:

On behalf of the entire John Jay community, I would like to extend to you our sincerest congratulations.

Your graduation is an important day for you and your family. It recognizes and applauds the perseverance and commitment that you have given to your scholarly pursuits here at the College.

You are now prepared to go forward and establish yourselves as leaders in your field, in either the public or private sector. Many of you will help solve the complex problems facing the criminal justice system. Others will play pivotal roles in other public service organizations and improve the quality of life within our city, our state, our nation and our world.

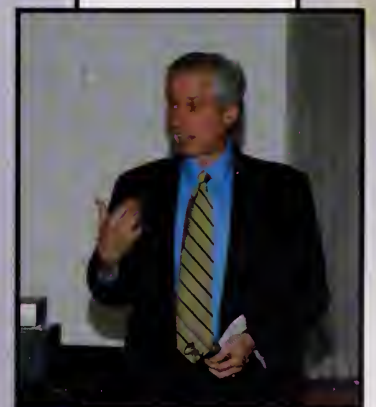

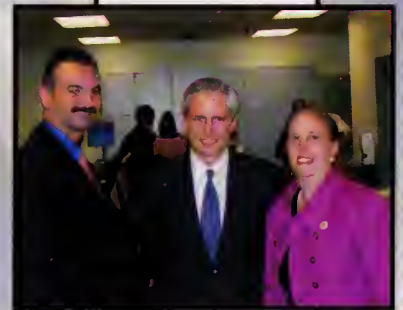

I am confident that John Jay has equipped you with all the tools you will need to take on the difficult tasks that lie ahead.

We wish you peace, happiness and professional fulfillment. It is our hope that graduation only reinforces the bond you have with the College. You will always be a part of John Jay, and our doors will always be open to you. The John Jay College website is a convenient way to keep abreast of activities at the College, no matter where you may be. I urge you to join the Alumni Association and make use of all the resources that our College has to offer.

As John Jay graduates, you are symbols of hope and success for all our current and future students.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Travis

MEMORANDUM

November 30, 2005

To: The Year Book, Class of 2006

From: Basil Wilson
Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs

Congratulations to the graduating class of 2006. More John Jay College graduates are completing their degrees in four years yet others have taken six years and some even a longer time to get to the finish line. The educational journey is not for those who have the courage to begin but for those who show the endurance and the tenacity to complete the course.

In life, there are perennial obstacles but even more critical is the will to overcome these obstacles. The College's student data records reveal that a sizeable number of the student body stop out largely for financial, family or health reasons. Your presence at this commencement is a testimony to your resilience.

As you crisscrossed the semesters towards the goal of completing the degree, the grand design was to prepare you well for the world of work but also to forever sharpen those critical thinking skills to ensure that you will have a life commitment to civic engagement and democracy. The faculty at John Jay College of Criminal Justice would like to know that they were successful in instilling the maxim "The unexamined life is not worth living."

There is much to comprehend in the contemporary world. The technological changes taking place in your life time have transformed access to knowledge and the forms in which communication takes place. As you continue your journey as a student, as a citizen, as a worker, cling tenaciously to the institutions that have shaped your life and spend your life giving back to those institutions.

JOHN JAY COLLEGE
THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK
OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Dear Graduate:

This is a wonderful time in your life. You have just completed your formal education at John Jay and have reached a milestone – you are now one of our more than 30,000 alumni. Welcome!

John Jay College of Criminal Justice has provided so many students with the opportunity to achieve, to study, to learn and to participate in society in a meaningful way. John Jay graduates are involved in so many public institutions providing significant services to the people of New York and throughout the United States.

John Jay students reflect the hard work and dedication to learning necessary to achieve, the very traits that most employers seek. They also reflect the dedication of hundreds of faculty and staff who helped in making their achievements possible.

I hope that you will continue with your education and become an active member of our alumni association.

Best wishes...

Dear Graduates:

I am delighted to congratulate you upon earning your degree. You have worked very hard and now your dedication has paid off. This was accomplished because you set clear goals and made a commitment to see them through.

The challenges facing the criminal justice system are enormous. I am confident your degree will help you deal with these complex issues and find solutions to improve our society. The education and knowledge you have acquired at John Jay College will provide you with some of the tools to do that. I hope you will consider remaining an active member of the John Jay College community as you pursue your personal and professional goals.

I extend to each of you my best wishes in all your future endeavors. Well done!

Dear Graduate:

Congratulations on your great achievement! You have earned your degree where many others have not been so successful.

You are now a member of an exclusive group known as the Alumni of John Jay College of Criminal Justice. This membership comes with many privileges but also obligations. The privileges include the ability to network with an amazing range of alumni who are employed all over the country and abroad. The obligation is to give back to the very community from which you are now graduating. Other individuals like you will graduate from the College. You have a duty to be there for them also.

Once again, congratulations to you and your loved ones on your graduation from John Jay College of Criminal Justice

Dear Graduate:

I would like to express my heartfelt congratulations to you on the occasion of your graduation from John Jay College of Criminal Justice. You have exhibited academic ability, commitment to education and stamina in completing John Jay's rigorous course of study. Staying the course in the face of life's many challenges and hurdles is no mean feat. You should be very proud of yourselves.

It is time to celebrate, but it is also time to reflect. If the faculty and administration at John Jay College have done their jobs right, you will be thinking of continuing your quest for learning. Education is a lifelong endeavor, and I hope all of you continue your search for knowledge. This may take the form of formal education or it may mean using the analytical tools you have mastered to engage in self-learning. Not only will such a course of action enable you to do better professionally, but in an even profound way it will enable you to more sensibly make difficult choices in life. The Greek Philosopher Socrates said, "The unexamined life is not worth living." It is in this spirit that I hope you continuously use your learning to assess what you want out of life and how you can best achieve your goals.

I wish you all the best of success in your future pursuits.

As I write to congratulate you, graduates of John Jay College, Class of 2006, I have some questions to ask you. Are you the first in your family to graduate from college? Did you have to work while attending school? Did you have to take care of a child or an older family member? Did you commute a long distance to school? Are you an immigrant or the child of immigrants, speaking a language other than English in your home? If you answered yes to any of these questions, give yourself an extra pat on the back for the achievement that graduation day represents. Having met the challenge of balancing complicated lives with the pursuit of knowledge, you are well prepared for the road ahead. I look forward eagerly to reports of your accomplishments as John Jay alumni. Good luck.

Dear Class of 2006

Congratulations on your achievement. As a graduate of John Jay College, you represent the future of the criminal justice and public service professions in the United States and internationally. We honor you. We also honor our faculty, whose commitment to teaching and research uniquely prepares John Jay graduates for their chosen professions. In the fast-paced environment of today's workplace, however, education cannot stop. Educational and professional needs of members of the criminal justice, law enforcement, public safety and related communities are constantly changing. To maintain and broaden professional competencies, many John Jay alumni return to the campus for continuing education. Professionals enroll in John Jay's programs to acquire new skills and expand their knowledge, both personally and professionally.

Specialized professional training and continuing education programs are now offered through the College's newly established Office of Continuing and Professional Studies. All programs are taught by outstanding faculty in state-of-the-art facilities on John Jay's campus. We invite you to participate in the College's professional training and open to the public non-credit courses. The Office of Continuing and Professional Studies is located in Room 601, 555 West 57th Street. For additional information, call (212) 237-8655 or visit our website at www.jjay.cuny.edu.

We look forward to meeting you and to your participation in our training and continuing education programs.

Sincerely yours,

Judith F. Kornberg, Ph.D.

Dear Graduates:

It is an honor for me to salute and congratulate you on your academic accomplishment. Your forthcoming graduation represents a milestone in your lives of which you can be extremely proud. The degree you will receive is your "entree" into a world waiting for your expertise in the various areas you have studied over these past years. In addition, your degree allows you to take your place among the "learned" in our society.

Your experiences at John Jay College, in both the academic and extra-curricular activities, have honed your skills and prepared you for the leadership roles you must play in your community, city, state, nation, and indeed the world, to help forge a just and humane society. As alumni of John Jay College, you can "tell the story" of the college that is dedicated to "educating for justice".

As you stand on the threshold ready to enter a world full of choices, remember that you will face many challenges, but you are adequately prepared through your education to meet those challenges. Successfully meeting those challenges will allow you to enrich your life and the lives of others. Class of 2006, I extend my best wishes to you always.

Dear Graduates:

A commencement brings people together to celebrate the graduates' educational accomplishments. As a graduate of our college, you have gained an extended family that will be here for you and will stand by you in all future efforts. As Dean of Students, let me be the first to congratulate you on your achievement. You have made us proud.

This past year many countries, including our own, have felt the power of natural disasters: tsunamis, hurricanes, tornados and floods. We also continue to experience other unnatural calamities as a result of wars. Our humanity and sense of justice is being tested as never before. The best way for us to overcome natural hardships and injustice is by embracing each other, being compassionate, generous, but mostly by acting in a just manner. You have embraced this way of being at John Jay College and now as you graduate, you have become an ambassador of this tenant. We expect you to profess and practice this throughout your personal and professional life.

In Memoriam

It is with great sadness that John Jay acknowledges the passing of Professor James Fyfe, one of the most prominent scholars of policing in America.

A Distinguished Professor at the College and Deputy Commissioner of Training for the New York City Police Department, Professor Fyfe understood that education could change lives, because education changed his life, as he ascended from police officer to internationally renowned expert.

The policing field, the research community, and particularly John Jay College, where his education began and his academic career ended, will miss him deeply.

It's indeed a great pleasure for me to congratulate you for completing your degree. I will be very brief, but honest. As you go forth in your careers, I strongly encourage you to be prepared both mentally and physically to deal with the new challenges awaiting us all as we begin this new stage in our lives. I strongly recommend you to pursue graduate studies or law school. Now that you possess a priceless degree from the John Jay College of Criminal Justice, you are positioned to become a leader within your respective areas and places of work. Leadership positions require the development of decision making skills. Trust me, it will not be easy and you will have to make hard decisions. The one thing that I want you to keep in consideration is that you never compromise your morals and principles and never harm anyone as you strive for greatness.

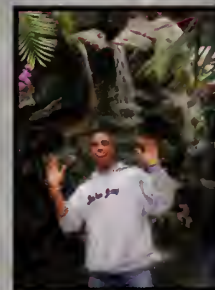

The reality is that just a few of you will become celebrities or maybe the best of the best in the career that you choose. Most likely some of you will earn more money than you know what to do with. I am not telling you what to do with your money, but I encourage you to leverage resources to the other students who also need support to realize their dreams. By providing an internship, a part-time job or by simply mentoring a dedicated student, you will be contributing to the overall mission of making more John Jay professionals available to the world. Also, never forget the people and the community that helped you succeed. Most likely your community needs some type of help, just find out what it is and just do what you have to do. Finally, from the bottom of my heart, I implore you to be true to your word and to recommit to the John Jay mission, "Educating for Justice"-- for a better world, for a better John Jay and for a better you.

Dear Class of 2006,

I am honored to congratulate you not only for obtaining your degree, but also for your hard work, determination, and will to succeed. Your degree from John Jay College of Criminal Justice is the key to the doors of all your future opportunities. I know that obtaining your degree required time, effort, and dedication. Over the past few years, each of you was willing to put in the work to better not only yourself, but also the community. I urge you to nurture and encourage a society of future leaders. It is essential that you give back to both the John Jay Community and the community at large. When I say give back, I do not mean donate your money, but dedicate your time to mentor potential leaders.

Obtaining your degree from John Jay College has prepared you to overcome the many obstacles you will encounter throughout your life. Through perseverance and hard work, your dreams can become a reality, and challenges can be conquered. Your education should not stop here at John Jay College. As it is commonly stated, "Knowledge is obtained by degrees, and wisdom dwells in contemplation." Good luck in your future endeavors.

Dear Graduates

Congratulations to the undergraduate and graduate class of 2006!

On this occasion, I would like to express my admiration for all the hard work that has gone into completing the requirements for your undergraduate or graduate degree. You have been truly dedicated. Many of you have had to keep a job while pursuing your studies, have often had family commitments to fulfill while also going to classes, but you have managed despite these obstacles to reach this day.

Some of you have often had long or difficult commutes to attend required classes and labs. Many of you have come from other countries, as I have, therefore, completing a degree in English has been an extra challenge.

Education in America is the key to opening the golden doors of opportunity. I hope in the future that you will serve your community well, and use the skills you have mastered not only in your respective families and communities, but the world community as well. You have taken the first steps towards service, and deserve a big hand.

Finally, do not forget your school. Join the Alumni Association and come back often. We hope that many of you will return and lecture to future classes on what you have learned in your fields and profession since graduation.

Congratulations again and best wishes!

Dear Graduating Class of 2006,

I am grateful to commend you all for your diligence in pursuing your endeavors. Commencement defines success, however, it is only the beginning of a life-long journey. Many of you will go on to pursue greater depths of knowledge, which will place you in beneficial positions within the workforce.

As today's criminal justice leaders, every one of you will be responsible for whatever occurs within our borders, as well as abroad. The objective of pursuing a major in the criminal justice field is to uphold the law at all measures, while exemplifying professionalism within this demanding field. Many of you have numerous responsibilities, now you are in a position of power, which grants you the opportunity to alleviate the overbearing burdens. In addition, you have the ability to change the lives of others, and to uphold the tenets of an honorable criminal justice system.

Congrats to the Class of 2006! "Let no one be slow to seek wisdom when he is young nor weary in the search of it when he has grown old. For no age is too early or too late for the health of the soul" - Epicurus. As alumni, you have a responsibility to give back to the community so that future John Jay College students can have a developed education. Best wishes to you and all your endeavors.

Dear Class of 2006,

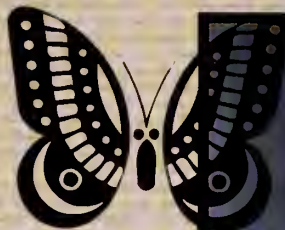

It is an honor to have the opportunity to congratulate my fellow classmates on their accomplishments. The degrees, certificates, and experience you all leave with are invaluable tools for living post college life as a productive and well informed class. My personal experiences with John Jay have enlightened me and sustained my belief in our great college. Open door policies and creative minds leading us on this journey will soon be forgotten, but for a few. However the one person you remember the most may not be the same person the next student standing with you as you receive your diploma may remember. Each subjective nudge and kind word from students and faculty alike have brought us to this culmination of our academic years.

Through these years at John Jay many of us have formed bonds and friendships in between class hours. These relationships should not go unnoticed and I thank everyone who has touched my life. This is why I urge this graduating class to not consider this a goodbye, but yet an advancement in our lives. One where we may come back to these halls as supportive alumni in all arenas, as mentors and support to our college in needed times. We are representatives of John Jay from here on in. The contacts and roads plowed for us by our faculty and administrators should make each and everyone of us grateful and humbled to have had excellence available to us every day.

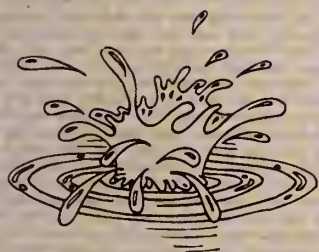

I guarantee there will be humps and you may want to hide from the future, but remember there are many of us that feel the same way. So know your future is as bright as you can imagine. Believe in yourselves as I believe in you. Good luck and many blessings throughout your endeavors.

Dear Graduating Class of 2006,

It is an honor to congratulate my fellow classmates upon earning your degree. You have achieved one of the most important goals in your life. Your quest for knowledge and pursuit of higher education marks you as a leader. You have made the sacrifices, put in the hard work and now you can finally celebrate the results of your efforts.

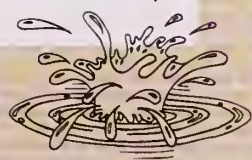

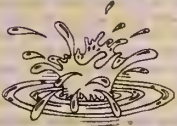

I know that the journey has been long and difficult. Many of you, like myself, have had to face personal challenges and dealt with trying times and stumbled over many obstacles along the way while trying to reach your goal. It was through character, dedication and commitment that you persevered. You have succeeded where many have failed.

Graduation is not the end, but the beginning of the rest of your life. With this accomplishment comes the responsibility to continue to grow to the full extent of your intelligence. You will encounter new experiences and face greater challenges. These will require you to make critical decisions. The skills you have acquired will assist in making positive decisions.

I strongly encourage you to use what you have gained from John Jay. Always remember your Alma Mater. Give back to John Jay a portion of what it has given to you. Help those who have inspired us to be strong leaders. Best wishes on your future successes and endeavors.

Sincerely,

Marie Campbell
Editor in Chief

THEATRICAL PLAYERS

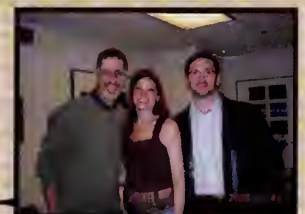

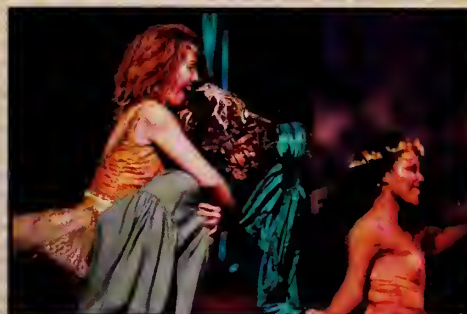

Professor Dana Tarrentinos' auditions for the spring production of 'Arabian Nights'.

Oh, sweet bully bottom...

Kennedy Center
Respondent

The Irene Ryan Scholarships provide support, recognition, and financial assistance to outstanding student performers. The nominees are chosen by the Kennedy Center respondent, JJTheatrical Players, and Dept. of Speech, Theater, and Media Studies. The scholarship is made possible by the late Irene Ryan, memorably known as 'Granny Clampett' from The Beverly Hillbillies.

Coach of the Year

Coach Palumbo leadership does not go unrecognized. His team is committed to community outreach such as the annual Christmas party when they hosted the kids from the Childrens Village. His time shows school support by attending the John Jay Theater to volunteering the team to any department that needs man power. The coach is on top of the players grades with study periods and never forgets those who have graced our halls with his annual Lou DeMartino Memorial Dinner.

A day when the team can reach out and motivate children who may not otherwise had someone there for them.

Hurricanes ravage the Gulf Coast region in the fall of 2005, posing an unprecedented test of the United States federal emergency response efforts. Hundreds of lives are lost and thousands are left homeless in the wake of Category 4 Hurricane Katrina, followed by Rita and Wilma. The tragedy spurs contributions of money, talents, homes, food and more in an attempt to raise spirits and rebuild the area.

August

- 25 Hurricane Katrina strikes Florida.
- 28 Mandatory evacuation of both New Orleans and Mississippi is ordered as Katrina becomes a Category 5 storm in the Gulf of Mexico.
- 29 Downgraded to a Category 4 storm, Katrina hits land. 1.3 million homes and businesses lose electricity in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. 30 levees are breached, flooding New Orleans and leaving 100,000 people stranded. After slow government response, civil unrest and looting begins.
- 31 President Bush surveys the damage.

September

- 1 30,000 National Guard troops are deployed. Gas prices spike to as high as $5 per gallon.
- 2 President Bush visits Louisiana and signs a $10.5 billion relief bill. Nearly 154,000 evacuees arrive in Texas.
- 4 The New Orleans Superdome is evacuated.
- 6 President Bush and Congress pledge to investigate the flawed disaster response.
- 9 Government-issued debit cards are distributed to evacuees. The program fails and is ended days later.
- 12 Michael Brown, head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, resigns. Flooding is down to 50 percent in New Orleans.
- 14 New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin announces a phased repopulation plan.
- 15 New Orleans begins to reopen. Katrina is named the most destructive hurricane in U.S. history.
- 20 Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco declares a state of emergency as Hurricane Rita strengthens off the coast.
- 22 Rita hits the Louisiana coast and heads for Texas.
- 23 Thousands evacuate eastern Texas and the 9th Ward of New Orleans floods once again after levees are overrun.

October

- 24 Hurricane Wilma hits southwest Florida.
